

New premises for Oxxio

Oxxio is the largest independent energy supplier in the Netherlands. The company supplies green electricity and gas to both households and businesses. Over the past number of years the demand for green electricity has grown immensely. In the run-up to the liberalization of the Dutch energy market, Oxxio anticipated this change in the market. The company has grown rapidly since it was established in 2000 and has had to look for a more suitable office space.

Eventually, new premises were found in Hilversum. The management core values have played an important part in choosing the office space. One of these values is durability. Oxxio feels very strongly about this. The selected building has a representative character that underpins the core values.

A great deal of thought has been put into the interior. D&Z Project Management has acted as both architect and project manager in this project. Regarding the decoration of the premises, Oxxio set the requirement that the interior of the building had to fit the company vision and style. The colours orange and blue are used in Oxxio's communication. The same two colours are prominent in the interior of the building. The synthetic floor finish is particularly striking! The Bolidtop® 525 system has been fitted in the office areas and the hallways and has the exact colours of Oxxio's company style.

Carpet has also been used in the office areas. Synthetic flooring and carpet can make a perfect match. There is no difference in level between these two types of floor covering, because Bolidt is able to create a fluid solution for such differences.

This building provides Oxxio with ample room to continue doing what it is good at: supplying energy!
