

Abbott and Bolidt, a success story again

And again Bolidt and Abbott have worked successfully together! After the earlier successes during the Campoverde project in Italy and in Zwolle and Breda, Bolidt was asked by Abbott to assist them in providing a solution for their facility in Granada, Spain.

Abbott is a leading broad-based healthcare company with a global presence and a wide range of products, focussing on medicines; medical diagnostic instruments and nutritional supplements for children and adults. Spread over 100 different locations, Abbott provides work to more than 68.000 employees. With their nutritional production plant in Granada, they are also responsible for the production of different brands of nutritional products for children and adults over there.

A new part of the plant was inaugurated during the summer of 2006. Due to the tight construction programme of this project some quick decisions had to be made, followed by some unsatisfying technical and aesthetical results. Based on trust and experience, Bolidt was contacted to provide a solution for these unpleasant results. The corridors of the plant required new floors with perfect technical properties, but the optical and hygienic aspects were from utmost importance as well. For this reason Bolidt advised Abbott to choose for the Bolidtop 700 system which would meet all of their requirements. During earlier projects, Abbott had already experienced this type of floor covering and a quick decision was made. Bolidt's own installation crew took care of the installation of the Bolidtop 700 quickly and efficiently. The plant engineers within Abbott Granada were highly satisfied with the final results, as Bolidt has met all their expectations.

Once again, a successful cooperation between Abbott and Bolidt has proven both the high quality of the flooring systems and the reliability of Bolidt, enabling a more solid foundation for an even better relationship with Abbott worldwide!
